

Observer & Observed Sight & Perception

Across

2. a neural impulse that moves an organism to action, prompting automatic reactive behavior
6. the act of taking possession or asserting a claim, taking for granted
7. Information gathered by the eye is interpreted by the brain to give perception that something is present when it is not.
8. A configuration or pattern of elements so unified as a whole that it cannot be described merely as a sum of its parts
9. that which comes to be known, as through perception, reasoning or intuition
13. Philosophical term referring to higher cognitive faculties of the human mind
14. Any system which receives information from an object.
17. the ability to learn or understand or to deal with new trying situations; the ability to apply knowledge
19. The constructive aspect, by which the experienced percept contains more explicit spatial information than the sensory stimulus on which it is based.

Down

1. In 1913, He suggested that the human mind judges an object's size based on its background.
3. The tendency of ambiguous perceptual experiences to pop back and fourth unstably between two or more alternative interpretations.
4. Philosophers, scientists, and artist all attempt to understand. The indefinite continued progress of existence and events.
5. the neurological process by which recognition and interpretation are effected
6. The cognitive process of selectively concentrating on one thing while ignoring other things.
10. The type of biological effector that prevents the rate of a chemical reaction.
11. one who is interested in the systematic investigation on human behaviour and mental processes.
12. to touch; to be aware of; to believe, think
15. Alice in Wonderland syndrome
16. an illusion that results from a natural optical phenomenon

Across

- 20. a branch of medicine dealing with the nervous system and its disorders
- 22. the gradual beginning or coming forth, becoming visible.
- 24. a mode of reasoning
- 25. a neurological condition affecting the human visual perception, in which objects appear larger than normal
- 26. to bring into a given condition by mental preoccupation

Down

- 18. A loss of ability to recognize objects, persons, sounds, shapes or smells while the specific sense is not defective
- 21. one of the senses, consisting of the ability to detect light and interpret it.
- 23. most commonly used to describe the higher functions of the human brain